THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

INSULATED TIP ON OIL CAN

Safeguard Against Sudden and Sometimes Fatal Shock When Oiling Electrical Machinery.

When oiling electrical machinery it is always advisable to safeguard yourself against accidental shock, especially when currents of high tension are being generated, writes A. J. Jarman in Scientific American. It frequently happens when an ordinary long-shaft oil can is employed for oiling dynamos that a severe shock is received by the oiler, resulting sometimes in death. Several years ago the writer invented an oil can that was perfectly safe under all ordinary conditions of use. Owing to the extreme simplicity of the design any one possessing ordinary mechanical ability can convert an ordinary oiler, either of the vertical or horizontal kind, into a safety oiler. Cut the spout in the middle and solder upon each a piece of brass tubing having either an external or internal thread cut. Fit therein a coupling-knob made of insulating material as shown in the sectional view. The insulator can be made out of either hard rubber or vulcanized fiber turned in the lathe, with a milled center to admit of a firm grip when screwing or unscrewing the parts. Since oil is an insulator, no current can get past the coupling sleeve to the oiler's hand.

ELECTRIC HEATER IS HANDY

Heat Derived From Incandescent Lamp Is Reflected Out in All Directions From Base.

An electric heater of ornamental design is shown in the accompanying cut and is the invention of Frank Kuhn, Detroit, Mich. The heat is derived from incandescent electric lamps mounted in the base as shown, says Popular Electricity. These lamps are of a low efficiency as far as light is concerned, but they give off a great deal of heat. This heat is reflected out in all directions by the polished metal standard and from the base.

ELECTRIC ARC LIGHT AIDS

Through Its Application Art of Photomicrography Received Great Impulse—Intensity Uniform.

The art of photomicrography received a great impulse through the application of the electric arc light. Before then it was most difficult to secure good photographs of minute objects magnified more than one thousand diameters, because the oxyhydrogen light employed to illuminate the objects was not sufficiently uniform in intensity.

With the electric arc light this difficulty was largely overcome, so that fine photographs have been made of objects magnified five thousand diameters.
Microscopy is far ahead of astronomy in the magnifying powers that it can employ. It is seldom that a power of so much as one thousand diameters can be usefully applied with a telescope, and in photographing the heavenly bodies comparatively slight magnification can be used. A photograph of the moon with a magnifying power of 5,000 diameters would be a wonder indeed.

Wireless Outfit for Police.

A part of the equipment of the new $3,000,000 police headquarters in New York is to be a wireless telegraphy outfit operated from the dome. It is expected that branch stations will be established in outlying districts of the city and in other counties, so that if wireless communication may be maintained.

Immense Aqueduct.

The aqueduct which Los Angeles is building from the San Fernando valley, 240 miles distant, not only will be the greatest in the world, but will supply more persons with water and at the same time irrigate 75,000 acres of land and develop 60,000 electrical horsepower.

Most merchants who are big advertisers spend but 2% to 3% of the volume of their business for advertising. In Janesville but few merchants spend 2%, none spend 3%.

MAY LOSE $30,000 THROUGH RULING OF NATIONAL BASEBALL COMMISSION—D. A. FLETCHER.

D. A. Fletcher, base ball promoter, who engineered the scheme of a series of games between two picked star lines this fall immediately after the world's series, stands a good chance to lose $30,000. Although the games are not likely to be played on account of the withdrawal of the support of base ball magnates, Fletcher claims he has proof in black and white offering hearty support of many of the big men in baseball, including President Hornum of the National League, who promised him his star players of the National League and the use of the National League park at Cincinnati for the Cincinnati games. Over thirty star players of both National and American Leagues hold certified checks on the First National Bank of Cincinnati, each amounting to from $500 to $1,000, which Fletcher holds of good faith with the players, which Fletcher and his attorneys claim will be collected by the players for their face value whether the games are played or not.
Fletcher is at the head of the new Independent base ball league which is backed financially by $2,000,000 of which $1,000,000 is deposited in bonds of good faith with over eighty star players of both National and American Leagues, which players have expressed their pleasure to come over to the new league. Fletcher says that the offers being made star players are so tempting that none so far have refused.
Plans for the new Independent League are now being formulated by Fletcher in Cincinnati at the Hayfin Hotel where he is headquartered, and he says that there will be something doing in the baseball line that will make the old magnates sit up and take notice before the snow stops flying next Spring.

COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE BOND ISSUES.

Washington.—One of the most far-reaching commissions appointed under the Taft administration is the one to investigate railroad bond issues and to devise means of controlling bond issues generally. The personnel of the committee is unusually strong, with President Hadley of Yale as the head, a specialist in railway regulations, Frederick Sturges of New York is an accountant, Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis has specialized in taxation and interstate commerce. The other members of the commission are Prof. H. H. Meyer of Wisconsin and Walter F. Fisher of Chicago, both of whom are well-known experts and competent to deal with the problems before them and their colleagues.
While the principal effort of the commission will be directed towards the investigation of railroad bond issues, it is well known that the commission is to devise means of regulating stock issues generally and to protect investors against the stocks which are sold simply for the money derived by the incorporators through the sale of stock not through actual production.
President Taft searched the entire country for the right men and believes a more representative body could not have been secured.

REFUSES TO MOVE HIS HOME—CAPT. STREETER AND WIFE WHO DEFY POLICE IN NEW RAIDS.

Chicago, Ill.—The most unique station. They ordered him to depart character in the Windy City is "Cape" George Welling Streeter, who with his wife, is now living in a wretched little shack on East Chestnut street. Streeter claims his home wagon had been moved to the lake front and that he district now occupied by Calumet's most exclusive business section along the lake front. He presented his claim to the City Building association and gained much notoriety through his eccentricity.
Last Sunday night while Mr. and Mrs. Streeter were away, someone, to play a practical joke, moved his wagon to the lake front and Streeter now resides in the "deserted" of Lake Michigan. This week he eluded the police of the Chicago Avenue, poking his head out of the wagon.

"Who do you think we are? I guess you think we are a couple of gyppies, eh? Well, we don't move a darn bit."

"Don't talk to me that way. I'm an officer and I order you away from here," returned Policeman Weir.
"Well, I'm Capt. George W. Streeter and I'm here with my wife. I used to own all this land down here, do you know that? Well, it's a fact, I sold it to the City Building association and they played a joke on me last night while we were away. We are going to stay until I find out just who the jokers are."

Policeman Weir reported the matter to Inspector Hovine, who said he had no right to drive the captain away unless he caused a disturbance or blocked the street.

MEDICAL MEN WILL MEET THIS EVENING

Rock County Society to Hold September Gathering at City Hall and Smoker Afterwards.
The Rock County Medical society will hold the first of its fall monthly meetings tonight in the city hall at 8 o'clock. Great interest is being taken in this meeting as several important subjects of business interest to the doctors will come up for discussion and adjustment. Encouraged by the success at the beginning of the year of the abolishment of legal contract practice, other evils which have been doing harm to the profession and the public, will be considered.

AN ADMIRABLE FOOD

COTTAGE CHEESE SHOULD BE A MORE POPULAR DISH.

Contains All the Proteids of Milk and Part of Fat—Curd May Be Heated or Strained Cold, as Preferred.

Cottage cheese contains all the proteids of milk and part of the fat. It is made either by heating the curd slightly and straining or by straining it without heating. If any heat is used, it should be very gentle or the curd will become hard and unpalatable. A safe way of heating is to pour boiling water into the curd. This is a good way also for those who do not care for the taste of lactic acid, for the hot water serves to remove part of this.

Cottage cheese would probably be a more popular dish if it were served in a greater variety of ways. For many palates it needs to be enriched with a little butter or cream. The French variety is commonly served with sugar and cream, and a similar dish is eaten in the United States, often being seasoned with a little ground cinnamon or nutmeg.

Cottage cheese is always a good addition to or accompaniment of salads. A good luncheon which can be served in one course consists of cottage cheese in which the first portions are eaten with dressed lettuce or water cress, and the last portion with a little of some rather sweet fruit preserve, such as strawberry or raspberry jam or preserved quinces. Served with bread and butter and tea, this makes a well balanced meal.

Cottage cheese flavored in different ways may be used for sandwiches. In busy households it may be well to prepare the filling and to allow the various members of the family to make their own sandwiches at the table. Caraway seeds, chopped stuffed olives of different sorts, and chives (a vegetable which may be easily grown in the kitchen garden) make good flavors. Instead of the different kinds of stuffed olives, plain olives and pineapples may be chopped separately and added, but this requires more work.

The question is likely to arise, why sour milk and its products are considered safe food to be eaten raw, while stale sweet milk is looked upon with some suspicion unless it has been cooked. The reason is that for a long time after the milk is drawn all the bacteria which enter into it increase in number, the increase being more or less rapid, depending chiefly on the temperature at which the milk is kept. Some of these bacteria may be kinds that produce disease, "Bund", however, when milk sours the lactic acid which they produce tend to destroy other micro-organisms, including the disease producing bacteria, so that the time comes when the harmful bacteria decrease very rapidly and the lactic bacteria increase very rapidly. By the time the milk is sour it is practically free from bacteria, except those of the lactic acid type.

MILWAUKEE CITY COUNCIL STANDS BY DR. RUCKER

Refuses to Accept Resignation of Health Commissioner Against Whom Charges Were Preferred.

Milwaukee, Sept. 27.—Dr. William Colby Rucker was reinstated as health commissioner of Milwaukee upon Mayor Bidel's return from Washington, where he had been in consultation with Surgeon General Wyman of the marine service in regard to Rucker's reinstatement.

Upon his return the mayor sent the following resolution to the common council, which was adopted after a hot fight between the Socialists and the opposition:

"Whereas, a dastardly and infamous attempt was made to defame the character of Health Commissioner Dr. William Colby Rucker by preferring certain charges, and

"Whereas, subsequent developments have proven long before the time set for the trial of said charges that the same were without basis in fact and without foundation, and therefore the case against Doctor Rucker had to be dismissed upon motion of the district attorney; but,

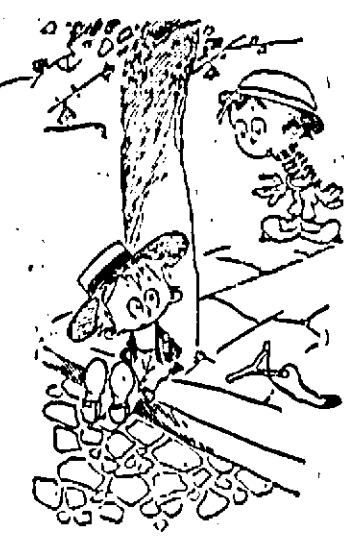

"Whereas, Doctor Rucker had tendered his resignation to take effect at the pleasure of the administration; now, therefore be it

"Resolved, That the common council hereby refuse to accept said resignation and requests him to reconsider his intention to resign, and be it

"Resolved, That it is the earnest desire of this common council that Doctor Rucker resume the duties of the office of health commissioner."

MONROE CLAIMS BASEBALL TITLE

Green Co. Nine Claims the Independent Team Championship of the State.

Monroe, Wis., Sept. 27.—The Monroe baseball team is now the possessor of the state independent baseball championship. The right to this title was acquired in their recent games with the Grand Rapids team which came here with a string of twenty-six games won out of thirty, having defeated all comers in the northern country. Monroe lost games with the Chicago Logan Squares and the Union Glants and lost two out of five games played with Stoughton. Monroe now has the record of twenty-six games out of thirty played and gets the scalp of the northern champions. Games were planned for last Friday and Saturday with the Grand Rapids team but on account of the rainy weather the games were called off. The following day two games were played and Monroe took honors with a score of 3 to 0 in the first game and 2 to 2 in the second. Walker, second baseman for Grand Rapids, has been hired to play for Monroe for the balance of the season. Foster, Monroe's first baseman, hurt his back in a fall in the Ryanville game and is obliged to retire. The Union Glants of Chicago will be here this afternoon.

Cornered at Last!

Washington—Amid all the absorbing speculation in which Washington is indulging about the coming season there is the pleasant certainty that the Capital City will be able to claim as its own for the coming winter at least two distinguished women in whose society is now much interested. Of these Mrs. Charles E. Hughes is comparatively a stranger here, while the other, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, whose husband succeeds the late Senator Daniels of Virginia, has already a large acquaintance and many as the wife of a supreme court justice. Mrs. Hughes will, it is believed, find her own congenial surroundings. The "court" families have their own distinct place, an enviable one, he it said, in the many cliques and sets which go to form Washington's complex society and which they are acknowledged leaders. One of the four state receptions at the White house, the second in the series, is annually given in honor of the justices of the supreme court and their families, and by an old and honored Washington tradition Monday is set aside as the "at home" day of the justices' wives. Following the reception in their honor at the White house there is a dinner at which they are also guests of honor.

Mrs. Swanson's social triumphs have been many in Washington. As Miss Lizzie Lyons, the handsome Virginia girl was a great belle here. Miss Lyons' eyes were big and blue, her hair was golden and her figure irreproachable. Added to these charms she had plenty of vivacity and delightful southern manners. Thus equipped she dealt havoc with many masculine hearts both in Washington and Richmond before she bestowed her own on young Representative Claude A. Swanson, the congressional "baby" of 15 years ago. She was married in Washington and a representative southern gathering congratulated the happy couple.

Customs Differ.

SUGAR TRUST HIT BY WICKERSHAM

ATTORNEY GENERAL ORDERS
NEW ACTION AGAINST RE-
FINING COMPANY.

COMBINE TO BE "SMASHED"

Amended Petition Is Prepared at Conference of Department of Justice Officials Asking for Concern's Dissolution—Violates Sherman Law.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Within a week an action will be started in New York by District Attorney Wicks, looking to the dissolution of the sugar trust. Orders to this effect have been sent out by Attorney General Wickersham.

An amended and much shorter petition, though much more comprehensive in its charges, has been prepared after a conference between the attorney general, District Attorney Wicks, Special Attorney Simpson and Mr. McReynolds.

Violates Anti-Trust Law.

It charges the sugar trust with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and the court is asked to dissolve the trust and issue an injunction restraining the American Sugar Refining company of New Jersey from voting the shares of the subsidiary companies pending the redistribution of those shares among their original owners. The action will be in all respects similar to that which resulted in the smashing of the Standard Oil company in the United States circuit court and in a general way it resembles the action against the tobacco trust. It is learned that an investigation into the sugar trust develops that all three of these concerns have been organized and were operated along parallel lines.

Operates Through Rebates.

As in the case of the Standard, the sugar trust has operated through rebates, free storage facilities, secret agreements and criminal methods for crushing out competition. It went through an earlier period of its existence like the oil trust, resulting in being overthrown by the courts; whereupon, like the oil trust, it organized a holding company under a New Jersey law, which has since enjoyed a practical monopoly of the sugar refining business in the United States.

Monopoly Is Complete.

In the case sugar business the monopoly of the trust is complete. Difficulties were encountered in cornering all the beet sugar interests, however, and because of the comparative economy with which beet sugar plants can be constructed, and the rapid spread of beet sugar cultivation, the trust has found it difficult to obtain a complete mastery of this industry. The fact has been established, however, that the sugar trust controls 70 per cent. of the sugar industry of the United States, cane and beet sugar combined, and on these facts the attorney general proposes to go ahead and force the dissolution of the concern.

SEEKS REVENGE ON ROOSEVELT.

Woman Notifies Him She Has Sued for $1,000,000 Damages.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Ida von Claussen is in Saratoga seeking revenge. She has served notice on Theodore Roosevelt, in a lengthy typewritten document, which was handed to Mr. Roosevelt by a negro bellboy, that she has filed suit for "slander, malice and revenge to recover $1,000,000 damages." Her complaint, she asserts, is based on "the gross insult and slander received in Sweden, of which the world has cognizance."

The insult was the refusal on the part of Mr. Graves, American minister to Sweden, to present Mrs. von Claussen to King Oscar on January 10, 1907. She alleges his refusal to do so was at the suggestion of President Roosevelt and Robert Bacon, then assistant secretary of state.

HITS AT SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Pinchot Declares U. S. Should Retake Southwest Oil Lands.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 27.—Gifford Pinchot threw a bombshell into the American Mining congress here when he submitted a report of his investigations in the California oil fields, in which he strongly urged the government to retake the mineral lands in the oil fields granted years ago to the Southern Pacific railway. These holdings of the Harriman railroads have been estimated by some to be worth more than the entire Harriman railroad system itself.

GAYNOR IS NOT A CANDIDATE.

Mayor Denies He Will Head New York Democratic State Ticket.

New York, Sept. 27.—Mayor Gaynor issued his first formal statement in which he says that he is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Somewhere in the statement does the mayor say, however, what course he will pursue in the event the nomination is thrust upon him. He indicates that he prefers to serve his full term as mayor, but at the same time he emphasizes the point that he feels no moral obligation to do so.

Storm Damage at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 27.—An electric storm of unusual severity, during which 2.5 inches of rain fell, did much damage here. The storm raged incessantly for nearly eight hours, and was general over Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and southern Nebraska.

It is a fallacy to believe that advertising will sell anything. The store or the article advertised must first of all attract attention to it.

Would Send Out for It.
One evening the head of the household came home earlier than usual, and was very hungry. He said to the maid, "Please tell the cook to accelerate the dinner." The maid brought back word to this effect. "If you please, sir, the cook says she hasn't any in the house, but if you can wait a little while she will send for some."

Flustered Orators.

It was a reunion of a gallant Irish regiment, and in due course a member rose to express his carefully rehearsed sentiment. "Here's to the old Fifth-ninth," he began, hotly. "It's last in the field and the first to have it!" "You muddler!" shouted a comrade, springing to his feet. "Here's to the old Fifth-ninth, equal to none!"

Too True.

When a fellow is between the devil and the deep sea he generally goes to the former.

Regret for Wasted Life.

Moody, the evangelist, used to tell of a man who spent 60 years of his life amassing a great wealth, and at last his mind gave way. They took him to the insane asylum and he threw himself into a chair crying out in agony: "Millions of money, and in a madhouse!"

Talking Woman Is Robust.

A man who figures has sent to the national bureau of statistics some facts of speech. He estimates that a woman talks eight times as much as a man; that she utters on an average of 2,500 sentences a day, whereas only 300 come from him. He asserts that the woman who is a great talker is invariably robust and full chested.

Good Point About Chrysanthemum.

Among flowers the chrysanthemum is said to live the longest after being cut.

INSEPARABLE

Bings—Yes, George and his wife are inseparable. You couldn't separate them with a club.

Bangs—Why, I just heard that his club has come between them.

SHOE DEPARTMENT A MARVEL

So much of variety and prettiness and yet so moderate are the prices as to make selection a matter of complete satisfaction.

Selby And Queen Quality Shoes For Women

For years these shoes have been sold by us and they have been our most successful lines.

They are displayed in the handsome short vamp effects so much desired. These four popular numbers will give an idea of the many beautiful styles we show.

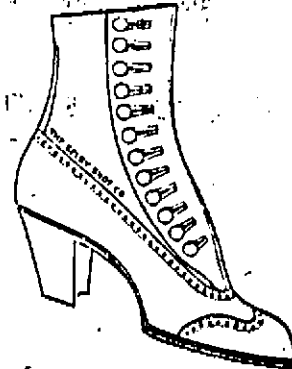

Gun metal Granier boot, wing tip, new polished gun metal buttons closely set, soft, flexible sole, $4.00.

Kravenette genuine waterproof cloth top boot, dull kid, welt sole, beautiful arch and heel, button or blucher, $3.50.

Heil patent colt boot, wing tip, stage last effect, button or blucher, $3.50.

Short vamp patent boot in button or blucher, wing tip or plain, dull velvet leather or cloth top, $3.00.

These models represent the best of the shoemaker's art in style, quality and perfect lasting.

Shoes For Men

You ought to demand the same individuality and character in your shoes as in your suits.

Shoe comfort is largely a matter of a perfect fit, but not entirely so. It takes good leather, good linings and good workmanship, as well as a good fit to give foot comfort. All three are combined in styles for men. This year there are many new style features, principally the Mutt and Tinsco, embodying the swing lasts and high knob toes everyone is talking about. $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50.

AND GOT TO SMOKING AGAIN

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

DO YOU ever make single basis snap judgments? Maybe, before you mentally answer, you would like to have me give you a vague idea of what it means.

"Well, I'll tell you. It means this: 'No, I don't like him. He wears suspenders and I never in this world could like a man who wore suspenders.'"

"Well, he certainly must be a pikar for fair. He smokes a cigar with the band on."

"Why, my dear, he's impossible! I saw him the other day in an elevator and he kept his hat on!"

"Oh, no, he can't really be anybody at all. Why his cards were printed!"

"My dear, no one could possibly like him. He uses a toothpick!"

Perhaps you don't recognize any of your particular prejudices in those, but surely you recognize the general tone.

And don't you think such judgments are very unjust? Little things, to be sure, show a person's lack of breeding, but I don't think the lack of any one point in breeding justifies the wholesale condemnation that we often give it.

Straws show which way the wind blows, but if one straw points east while all the rest point north, that doesn't show the wind is east even if the east pointing straw does happen to be a particularly large one from your point of view.

One of the very finest women I know, brilliant and talented and thoroughly a lady in every sense of the word, does not keep her nails in good order.

Nice looking nails are the hall mark of a well-bred woman, and yet I certainly do not think anyone would be justified in saying this woman was not a lady and a very high bred lady at that.

Now, don't think I am attempting to justify carelessness about one's nails, or the public use of the toothpick, or any of the other follies that I have mentioned.

I am not.

I am simply trying to show that no one offense of that sort is sufficient to form the basis of a judgment.

Such judgments are a reflection on those who make them rather than on those who are judged.

In a book of memoirs that was published recently a great lady tells of how Disraeli proposed to her and what she thought was her chief impression of him—that he was impossible because he had such a bad breath.

Now, of course, it was very much to Disraeli's discredit that he should so offend good taste, but listen to the commentator's opinion of the two—the judge and the condemned:

"There is reason for you. The man who made an ancient queen into an Empress, who subdued and led the ancient aristocracy of England, climbing from a Jewish home and a lawyer's office to the premiership of the greatest of empires—there he stands before us, belittled, humiliated and made almost scornful and abhorrent by this cruel and undazzled female observer, as simply a man with a foul breath. It is a stupendous picture of him—AND OF HER."

Which goes to show how single basis snap judgments are apt to impress those who hear them.

MRS. ANN ROBERTS—FOSTER-MOTHER OF KING GEORGE V. DISCOVERED IN POVERTY.

(By Special Correspondent.)

Pittsburg, Pa.—Mrs. Ann Roberts, foster-mother of George V., King of England, has been discovered in poverty here.

Mrs. Roberts lost one of her own babies through her attendance upon the infant prince. The royal physicians and retainers would not inform her of her own child's illness for fear the milk with which she was nourishing the future king of England might become poisonous and do him harm.

Mrs. Roberts, at the suggestion of friends, is writing the English sovereign of her condition and asking some recognition at his hands for what she did for him as an infant.

Mrs. Roberts is the mother of Captain Henry A. Roberts of the Volunteer Corps of America. She is a native of Wales. She has been living for the past several years with her brother, Richard W. Edwards of Sumner Hill, North Ohio. She was a member of the royal household of Great Britain for ten months and three days. Her own child died in the night without her knowing that she had even been ill.

Mrs. Roberts is the only woman in the world who ever nursed the king of England, including his own mother.

Mrs. Roberts went from Bethesda, North Wales, when quite a young girl to seek service in London. She was eventually married there. Her husband was a respectable tradesman residing close to Buckingham palace. They were happy and prosperous.

Among their friends were some of the most influential Welsh people in London. Among these was a Mrs. Jones then of 20 Hill St., Knightsbridge, also a Welsh woman. Mrs. Jones was a great favorite with the late Queen Victoria, under whom she held authority to select and engage all the domestics for the royal nursery.

Mrs. Roberts was then a comely young matron, of splendid physique and in the enjoyment of perfect health and a robust constitution which had been developed while nursing as a girl over the rock-bound and heather-clad hills of her native Wales.

Mrs. Roberts was at that time about to become an other, she knew as did all Britain, that the then Princess Alexandra was in a similar delicate condition. Mrs. Roberts had a dream in which it appeared to her that she had been selected to nurse the expected child of royalty. Within a day or two thereafter, not then knowing the full extent of Mrs. Jones' authority, Mrs. Roberts called on her and related her strange dream and told her of her selection to nurse the prince. It seemed to me that I had been turned into a block of cold marble. The loss of my own beautiful child had that effect upon me regarding the little prince that I saw grow almost to believe that he was truly my own child. I was kept in this position just about a year. When my services were no longer required King Edward then Prince of Wales, sent for me from the nursery to tell me that I had not only won his esteem but that of his beautiful Alexandra, and that I was also esteemed and respected by the royal household.

"When I arrived in my own home once more, after nearly a whole year of absence, it was to find that fortune had withdrawn her smiles and that my husband's business had been ruined. A cattle disease, then raging, had killed away nearly all of our good cows, and every penny that we had saved during our time of prospering had been expended in a vain attempt to stem the disastrous flood. On the very afternoon that I arrived a butcher delegated from the cattle commissioners also arrived to kill the last two remaining cows of what had been an excellent dairy. Those appalling conditions at home caused me to decide at once to take up nursing as a profession. I immediately arranged to lay out the money I had earned in the royal service in a course of nursing and midwifery. In due time I won my diploma in both branches and nursed among the noble and the great of Great Britain for 25 years.

TEARS, WOMEN AND MEN.

(By MARY ROSSCHILL.)

Kate Montegomery says that if women would have their own way with men they must weep.

It is a woman's weapon and prerogative since Eve first wept in the garden.

Perhaps this is true when dealing with primitive men and women. Perhaps there are still men who grow wobbly at the knees at woman's tears. There are men who prefer a parasite vine to a companion.

They are just a little uncertain as to their own status and want to feel sure that they are "a sturdy oak," and like to feel a contrast rather than a companionship. If there are those who must take the water cure before they know what is right then by all means treat them to the daily shower bath. They will be purer in soul, perhaps, and at least no harm will be done. But in this case as in all others there must be used a bit of judgment. Some men dislike water. They have never learned to swim and have kept out of the church of their choice because they felt they could not endure the immersion required to wash their sins away. What are you going to do with that kind of a man? The tears might make him turn rusty. He might make his escape from the house with that slam of the door which has been called a wooden dam. He may even elect to stay out very late in the night so as to be sure the fountain has been shut off. He will require something more than the hydropathic treatment. Absent treatment on his part will convince the most tenacious and wildest woman of that. She might try smiles and honest reasons as against tears and the timely argument of sex.

To not all of the older readers remember the old-fashioned story book where the heroine bestowed each page with fervent tears, and the cause might be either a spotted gown, or an unfaithful husband, or the deserting cook, or unbecoming ribbons? Ellen Montgomery was another sorrowful heroine of a decade or so ago, who could not even think in the privacy of her room without freely bursting into tears. Then there were the Dinmore books with an Elsie who burst into tears on every page, with a watery smile that robbed her of all sympathy.

The weeping lady belonged in the age where women fainted at sight of a mouse and turned pale at the odor of a rose. We may not be as sentimental, but we are more sincere. Women today are not made of three parts water and one part sugar. The sweetness is there just the same, but it is in a different combination.

If I were a man and a woman sought to kiss my opinion by tears I know what I would do. I would jump on my hat and hasten from the house with an energy that would electrify the neighbors. I would not return till I felt serene and sweet tempered and sufficiently dried out to be impervious to the dust-laying process. It is a bad system, if one wants to raise the dust, to turn on the sprinkler!

Women of today will smile at the suggestion. They have made their places so secure that they know that the tear game was overplayed. Even if it would work they are too proud to use the "womanly" weapon. Women are healthier mentally and physically and that is why they refuse to believe in "the tears."

New Fire-Escape Idea.

A New Yorker has invented "mattress trucks," a bit of fire apparatus which is designed to be elevated to about the second story of a house and then spread out in such a manner that imprisoned persons in the upper stories may jump into them with absolute safety.

Daily Thought.

"Don't cry out to Providence if you fall into a bed of nettles. Sit up quick and look for a dock leaf. Time to cry to Providence is when you're in a fix you can't get out of single-handed."

The Three Brothers.

Most merchants who are big advertisers spend but 2% to 5% of the volume of their business for advertising. In Janesville but few merchants spend 2%, none spend 5%.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

Food Specialist

FOOD AFFECTS THE MENTAL CONDITION.

Health is harmony; disease is discord—"the sum of abnormal cell activities;" and the restoration of health, of normal vibration, depends largely upon mental attitude, which is constantly influenced by food when the sense of comfort comes after an appropriate meal, of lassitude after a heavy meal or nightmare following an incongruous mixture. The fact that these influences are extremely varied, constant and elusive, makes them none the less real and important. To say that the importance of diet is not recognized would be unreasonable, for the average physician at least advises the patient to eat lightly in sickness, and to avoid heavy foods, but it is safe to say that the close relationship between food and thought is not appreciated, and least of all by those who realize so well the power of thought that they think it makes no difference what one eats because the mind controls the body.

NAME SHURTLEFF IN INQUIRY.

Forty $100 Bills Deposited in Bank After "777" Bill Passed.

Hopkinton, Ill., Sept. 27.—J. B. Wilson, assistant cashier of the First National bank of Marengo, before the Hannigan county grand jury testified that forty $100 bills had been deposited in that bank in 1907 to the credit of the J. C. Janke Lumber company, which company he testified was owned by Speaker Edward D. Shurtleff. He said the money was deposited after the passage of House Bill 777.

At the time of the deposit, Wilson testified, considerable comment was made in the bank on where the speaker got the money. The bank officials, he swore, wondered why, in a business transaction involving $4,000, the money was not transferred by draft or by check, instead of cash. He testified that it was Patrick, the bank president, who was so amazed he took the numbers of the forty bills to make sure Mr. Shurtleff or his company had not been deceived by counterfeit money.

House Bill 777 invalidated the bonds of the Western Indiana railroad. After the road had consolidated it issued bonds amounting to between $10,000 and $50,000,000, which were found to be invalid because there was no law allowing the consolidation and re-issuance of bonds.

Immediately a bill was introduced into the legislature legalizing those bonds, and this bill was known as House Bill 777.

COUNCIL FEARS A PHONE JOKER

PERMIT TO EXCAVATE STREETS FOR UNDERGROUND SYSTEM WITHHELD.

COMPANY HAS AX TO GRIND?

Committee Given Further Time to Consider Petition at Special Meeting Last Night.

After the question of granting the Wisconsin Telephone Company permission to place their wires underground in the business section of the city had been fully discussed both in open meeting and in the committee room at the special meeting of the common council held last night, the judiciary and highway committee, to whom the petition had been referred, were granted further time to consider the proposition.

City Officials, Chief Klein of the fire department, and L. B. Barnes of Milwaukee, a special agent of the company, participated in the discussion pertaining to the advisability of granting the petition. According to the fire chief, who is also city electrician, the company's petition contains a joker and if granted will not benefit the city. That the object of the company in securing permission to excavate the streets is simply to get rid of their heavy aerial cables is the belief, who avers that other cities have granted similar requests and then waited fifteen or twenty years for all the wires to be placed underground and the poles removed. To the chief's mind, the proposed plan helps the fire department or police alarm system, in no way and, if the wires were granted, the poles and wires that now hinder the work of the department would still remain.

That the poles and all the wires, except the heavy cables, would be left were the petition granted, was a point brought out by Mr. Barnes' answers to Mayor Carle's inquiries. The representative of the company asserted, however, that while all the wires and poles would not be removed at once, the work would be a preliminary step toward general improvements in this city in which the company expects to expend about $75,000. In answer to Alderman Brown's question, he said the company would probably make no objection to furnishing a $1,000 bond to insure that the streets torn up would be restored in good condition. Mr. Barnes stated later tonight that the terminal pole system suggested by Chief Klein, would undoubtedly be installed. Despite Mr. Barnes' assertion that the usual procedure of compelling the company to place their wires underground had been reversed in this city where the company is petitioning for permission, the council thought it best to consider the question further and granted the two committees more time.

Reform Proposed. As a result of an objection raised by Alderman Evans and Brown concerning the manner in which the purchasing committee has been elected by city officials in buying supplies, resulted in a resolution to observe the ordinance requiring that supplies for the various departments be purchased by the committee named for that purpose. Accordingly, Alderman Duin's orders for two car loads of paving brick for the Spring Brook bridge and supplies for the November elections were amended.

Street Matters.

An order, introduced by Alderman Hall, directing the city engineer to raise the established grade on Jackson street, from Court to Milwaukee, under the direction of the street assessment committee, a change, which, it is said, will increase the value of property abutting on that street, was unanimously adopted. Alderman Hall's order, instructing the street commissioner to remove all barricades on Center Ave., except where it is unsafe for traffic, was also adopted without a dissenting vote.

DELIGHTFUL HOP AT COUNTRY CLUB

Thirty Couples Danced to Krell's Music Until Half Past Two This Morning—Thanksgiving Ball

Announced. Threats of rain and windy winds failed to hinder or check or interfere in any way with the high spirits of those who gathered at the Country Club last evening and the spell of Krell's music was quite as potent as ever heretofore. The program of lively waltzes and two steps included adaptations from all the newest compositions and the Chicago "Master of the Keys" was ably seconded by Drummer Menzies. Some thirty couples participated in festivities which lasted until half past two o'clock this morning and it was announced just before the hop broke up that Krell's orchestra of seven pieces had been engaged for a ball to be given under Golf Club auspices Thanksgiving night. Among the out of town guests last evening were: Miss Ella May Brown of Omaha who is a guest of Miss Blanche Sweeney, Miss Nellie Patterson of Brookfield, Ill., who is spending a few days with Miss Isabel Farr, Mrs. Johnson of Chicago who is visiting at the home of Herbert Ford, Miss Leonore Melnhart of Burlington, and Mrs. Vera Wilcox Leighton of Portland, Me.

CAR NO. 13 VS. AUTO, FORMER IS VICTOR

Or. E. H. Dudley's Automobile Vanquished in Encounter This Morning by the Company's Mascot.

Car No. 13, the spoiled darling of the Janesville Street Railway Company, jumped into the limelight again this morning. Dr. E. H. Dudley's automobile was the victim. The accident happened at eight o'clock while the doctor was about to turn his car at the intersection of W. Milwaukee and High streets. Car No. 13 happened along just at that moment and in the mixup that followed the automobile came off second best. Before the driver could control his machine, it had eluded the curb and jammed its way between E. J. Schmidt's restaurant and a nearby pop corn stand, to the detriment of one acetylene lamp and the rear seat of the car, which, it is said, had been already bumped by No. 13. So far as could be observed, No. 13 looked no worse than usual after the accident.

"That motorcar could not have done better if he had put on full speed and tried to run me down," said Dr. Dudley.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Catherine Frusher. North Center, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Catherine Frusher, a resident of this place, died suddenly last Tuesday while visiting at the home of her son, Jerry Frusher, in Beloit. Mrs. Frusher was well known in this vicinity and, through her cheerful, lovable disposition, had made many friends. She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Jennie, and four sons, Fred of Detroit, Mich., Jerry of Beloit, and Thomas and William Frusher of Janesville. The funeral was held Thursday from St. Michael's church in Port.

Henry E. Utter. [Special to this Gazette.] Utter Corpers, Sept. 26.—Henry E. Utter, a life-long resident of this place, died at his home here last Tuesday. Funeral services were held at the church Friday afternoon at three o'clock, conducted by Rev. Samuel Long of Whitewater, assisted by Rev. J. W. Roberts. The remains were laid to rest in the family lot in the Utter Corners cemetery. The church was filled with friends and neighbors who gathered to pay their last tribute of love and respect to his memory. The floral offerings were profuse and very beautiful. The song service was by Henry Goodman. Miss Hannah Goodman, Mrs. Fred Woodcock, and Mr. Smith. George Albert, Van Sturdevant, Fred Hudley, Albert Stults, William and Fern Teetsch were the pallbearers.

Mr. Utter's death was due to a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered Tuesday morning. He was born here March 27, 1841 and with the exception of two years, when he was engaged in the implement business at Waupun, his entire life was spent on the farm on which he was born and died.

Charlotte Woodstock. [Special to this Gazette.] Calvinville Center, Sept. 26.—The funeral of little Charlotte Woodstock Sunday, was very largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. The services were conducted by Rev. E.

GAMBLERS MAKING THE LAST STAND

NEVADA THE SCENE OF FINAL BATTLE FOR EXISTENCE.

WHEELS OF CHANCE STOP

October 1st, Date Set for Closing Gilded Club Houses in Western State.

Even the west is becoming more civilized and seeking by stringent laws to drive out the man with the three card monte game, the faro dealer, the crumpler at the roulette table, stop the click of the chips and show the world that there is no wild and woolly region either this side or beyond the Rockies. Nevada is the last state in the Union to pass anti-gambling laws and on October first these gilded palaces of the "Goddess of Chance" at Reno and elsewhere will be closed. William W. Watt, who is located in Reno, writer of the coming change and the fight the gamblers are making, are as follows:

These are busy days in the city of Reno. Public gambling closes on the first of October and the way the thousands of sports are filling over themselves to place their money in the many temples of chance reminds one of the excitement during the war of the Jefferson-Johnson fight. Monte Carlo in the casinos never saw the like of it. Like smoking wagers lighting for their lives against a pack of sniping, purring hounds, the gamblers of America are making their last stand in Reno for legalized gambling. Driven from every state in the Union, they have entrenched themselves in the metropolises of this commonwealth and here, standing at bay, are putting up their last battle.

These gamblers have been voted out of business but are now fighting day and night to elect candidates that will favor the repeal of this state law. That is where the present fight is coming in. The gamblers, men of chance, who have selected Reno as the one best bet and have played this hot to win, find that they must fight or become wanderers on the face of the earth.

A great political battle is now on in the state of Nevada, and although a United States senator is to be elected and momentous political questions are to be decided, over all this, like an evil spirit, hangs the gambling question. The gamblers of Nevada may hold the balance of power in this bloodless war, and this thought has put fear into the hearts of many candidates. It is a struggle to the death and at present the Anti-Gambling League holds the trump card. Politics are pure in Rock county compared to the situation out here. They stop at nothing here to gain a point. Money is a second consideration.

Without a single herald the gamblers crept into Nevada from Montana, Colorado, Texas and other states, and each state put a ban on the game, and slowly but surely the gamblers built up a great organization. Since this city of Reno became known as the Monte Carlo of America, one entire street here is devoted to gambling houses and the men owning these glittering, alluring palaces became a power in the land. They swayed political parties and year by year their power became stronger. Many gambling bosses became political barons.

The business men of the city did not like this sort of thing and the ministers cried out against it. The church associations passed resolutions against it and President Stubbs of the Nevada State University, located in Reno, claimed that the gambling business was ruining the university as no father would allow his son to reside in such a community. He pointed out how hundreds of parents were sending their sons and daughters to the great universities of California fearing that they would be ruined by the evils in Reno. Yet the gambling went on and the gambling lords became richer and richer.

One day in all this excitement an evangelist alighted from the train in Reno. This evangelist, Rev. Dr. Bulgin by name, took in the situation at a glance. He got to the ears of the ministers and he started a crusade of gambling. And ever since there has been something doing. He made speech after speech on the streets. He denounced the gamblers in the strongest terms that a minister of the gospel can use. He pointed out how they made men embezzlers, how young men played the games and then ended the game of life with a bullet in the poison. He pointed out where gambling made sorrowing mothers and heart-broken wives. And all this time he was telling the absolute truth.

Soon Dr. Bulgin had hundreds of men who were willing to take up the work of ridding Reno of this evil. Then the Anti-Gambling League was formed and with several hundred members it waged war on the gamblers until finally the city council of Reno passed an anti-gambling ordinance. Then the entire state voted gambling out to take effect October 1, 1910. And out she goes, but not without an effort on the part of the gamblers to remain behind and try and control the politics of the entire state in the coming election to be held this November.

In the largest gambling houses each night may be heard first-class orchestras accompanying the clicking of the ivory balls in the roulette wheels, the shuffle of cards at the faro tables, the clack of money and the roll of the dice on the crap tables.

In these gambling palaces each night workmen wager their daily wages; professional gamblers, immediately place their bets by the side of ragged tramps with a lonely dream in a man's eye. At the faro tables may be seen well-to-do Renolites, wealthy strangers, opium smoking Chinese all sitting at the same game.

Sometimes men make big winnings, but more often they lose, and then they stand off the butcher, the grocer and the clothier for another month. This has been brought to the minds of the people by the Anti-Gambling League, and it is on such a showing that the league is waging its fight. The one question is:

"Will the worthy object of the league overcome the organization and money of the gamblers?"

It is a state-wide question, and in the long run there is only one outcome—the survival of the fittest.

GAMBLERS MAKING THE LAST STAND

NEVADA THE SCENE OF FINAL BATTLE FOR EXISTENCE.

WHEELS OF CHANCE STOP

October 1st, Date Set for Closing Gilded Club Houses in Western State.

Even the west is becoming more civilized and seeking by stringent laws to drive out the man with the three card monte game, the faro dealer, the crumpler at the roulette table, stop the click of the chips and show the world that there is no wild and woolly region either this side or beyond the Rockies. Nevada is the last state in the Union to pass anti-gambling laws and on October first these gilded palaces of the "Goddess of Chance" at Reno and elsewhere will be closed. William W. Watt, who is located in Reno, writer of the coming change and the fight the gamblers are making, are as follows:

These are busy days in the city of Reno. Public gambling closes on the first of October and the way the thousands of sports are filling over themselves to place their money in the many temples of chance reminds one of the excitement during the war of the Jefferson-Johnson fight. Monte Carlo in the casinos never saw the like of it. Like smoking wagers lighting for their lives against a pack of sniping, purring hounds, the gamblers of America are making their last stand in Reno for legalized gambling. Driven from every state in the Union, they have entrenched themselves in the metropolises of this commonwealth and here, standing at bay, are putting up their last battle.

These gamblers have been voted out of business but are now fighting day and night to elect candidates that will favor the repeal of this state law. That is where the present fight is coming in. The gamblers, men of chance, who have selected Reno as the one best bet and have played this hot to win, find that they must fight or become wanderers on the face of the earth.

A great political battle is now on in the state of Nevada, and although a United States senator is to be elected and momentous political questions are to be decided, over all this, like an evil spirit, hangs the gambling question. The gamblers of Nevada may hold the balance of power in this bloodless war, and this thought has put fear into the hearts of many candidates. It is a struggle to the death and at present the Anti-Gambling League holds the trump card. Politics are pure in Rock county compared to the situation out here. They stop at nothing here to gain a point. Money is a second consideration.

8,402 END OWN LIFE IN YEAR.

Census Mortality Report Incomplete, Shows 2,354 Homicides.

Washington, Sept. 27.—In 1909 there were 2,354 homicides in that part of the United States covered by death registry laws and in the same area 8,402 deaths from suicide. The figures are given in the census bureau's annual report on mortality and cover about 55 per cent. of the population. There is an actual decrease of 149 in the number of homicides compared with 1908, while there is a decrease in the number of suicides compared with 1908.

Poison was the most commonly used instrument of suicide, figuring in 2,464 cases. Firearms, with 2,395, were a close second as a means of self-destruction, while hanging accounts for 1,215 cases.

The Silver Horde

By REX BEACH

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"To be sure, but I was good to them when they were hungry last winter, and I prevailed upon them to come. They aren't very good fishermen. They're awful lazy and they won't work half as hard as white men, but it's the best I could do." She laughed gladly, more than repaid by the look in her companion's face. "Now get me some lunch. I'm fairly starved."

Big George, when he had fully grasped the situation, became the boss fisherman on the instant. Before the others had reached the cookhouse he was busied in laying out his craws and distributing his gear. The impossible had happened; victory was in sight; the fish were running. He cared to know no more.

That night the floor of the fish dock groaned beneath a weight of silver added salmon piled waist high to a tall man. All through the cool, dim hours the ranks of Chinese butchers hacked and all and slashed with swift, sure, tireless strokes, while the great building echoed hollowly to the clank of machines and the hissing sighs of the soldering furnaces.

It seemed to Boyd that he had never felt such elation as during the days that followed. He trod upon air; his head was in the clouds. He joked with his men, inspiring them with his own good humor and untiring energy. He was never idle save during the odd hours that he snatched for sleep.

While the daily output was disappearing, Emerson drew consolation from the prospect that his pack would be large enough at least to avert utter ruin.

Up at the trust's headquarters Willis Marsh was in a blue fury. As far as possible his subordinates avoided him. On the third day after Boyd's delivery, Emerson Constantine sought him out in company with several of the native fishermen, translating their demand to be paid for the fish they had caught.

"Can't they wait until the end of the week?" Emerson inquired.

"Not they. They got no money—they got no grub. They say little baby is hungry, and they like money now. So soon they buy grub, they work some more."

"Very well. Here's an order on the bookkeeper."

Boyd tore a leaf from his notebook and wrote a few words on it, telling the men to present it at the office. As Constantine was about to leave he called to him:

"Wait! I want to talk with you."

The breed halted. "How long have you known Mr. Marsh?"

"Me know him long time."

"Me go Indian village. What for you ask?"

"Nothing. Only if you ever have any trouble with Mr. Marsh I may be able to help you. I like you, and I don't like him."

The breed grunted unintelligibly and was about to leave when Boyd reached

"The yacht! What yacht?"

"Mr. Wayland's yacht. He's making a tour of this coast with the other officers of the trust and—"

"Is he coming here?" demanded Cherry in a strained voice.

"Why didn't you tell me?"

"I don't know; I didn't think you would be interested."

"So she can't wait? She is so eager that she follows you from Chicago clear up into this wilderness. Then you won't need my assistance any more, will you?" Her lips drooped, half hiding her eyes, and her face hardened.

"Of course I shall need your help. Her coming won't make any difference."

"It strikes me that you have allowed me to make a fool of myself long enough," said Cherry angrily. "Here I have been breaking my heart over this enterprise, while you have known all the time that she was coming. Why, you have merely used me—and George, and all the rest of us, for that matter." She laughed harshly.

"You don't understand," said Boyd. "Miss Wayland—"

"Oh, yes, I do. I dare say it will gratify her to straighten out your troubles. A word from her lips and your worries will vanish like a mist. Let us acknowledge ourselves beaten and beg her to save us."

Boyd shook his head in negation, but she gave him no time for speech.

"It seems that you wanted to pose as a hero before her and employed us to build up your triumph. Well, I am glad you failed; I'm glad Willis Marsh showed you how very helpless you are. Let her come to your rescue now; I'm through. Do you understand? I'm through."

very strangely of late. "She used to be the happiest sort of creature, always laughing and singing, but she has changed entirely during the last few weeks. Both she and Constantine are forever whispering to each other and skulking about until I am getting nervous myself." Then, as the Indian girl came flying back with her tiny baby brother in her arms, Cherry added: "She's pretty, isn't she? I can't bear ugly people around me."

At the native village, in spite of every effort she and Boyd could make, the Indians refused to go back to work.

"Since they can't use your money at the store, they don't seem to care whether it is good or not," Cherry announced after a time. "Oh, but it's maddening!" She stamped her foot angrily. "And I was so proud of my work. I thought I had really done something to help at last. But I don't know what more we can do. I've reached the end of my rope."

"So have I," he confessed. "Even with those fifty Aleuts we weren't running at more than half capacity, but we were making a showing at least. Now?" He flung up his hands in a gesture of despair. "George is in trouble, as usual. Marsh's men have cut our nets, and the yacht may arrive at any time."

"The yacht! What yacht?"

"Mr. Wayland's yacht. He's making a tour of this coast with the other officers of the trust and—"

"Is he coming here?" demanded Cherry in a strained voice.

"Why didn't you tell me?"

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 27.—Two thousand miners and eight mines in the Linton district refused to work to attend a wild west show. The mines are three weeks behind with orders.

Nebraska Bankers in Convention.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 27.—When the Nebraska Bankers' association met here today for its annual convention, the attendance and the interest displayed, gave promise that the convention would be the best ever held by the organization. President J. W. Walpole of Ogallala was in the chair and announced a program which included addresses by Leslie M. Shaw, ex-secretary of the treasury; Henry W. Yates of Omaha, Alexander D. Noyes, financial editor of the New York Evening Post; Joseph Chapman, Jr., of the Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis; John D. Haskell, president of the Farmers and Merchants' bank of Wakefield, Neb.; Dan J. Riley, of the Dawson bank; Alvin R. Barton, auditor of state and member of the state banking board; Edwin Irvine Haines, editor American Banker of New York City, and Victor R. McLucas, the association's attorney.

Justice Steele Ill.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 27.—Chief Justice Robert W. Steele of the supreme court of Colorado suffered a stroke of paralysis at his home here.

Kills Self in Hotel.

St. Louis, Sept. 27.—J. H. Fratzeil, general agent of an insurance company at Springfield, Ill., drank acid and was found dead in a hotel here.

Not the Receiver Who Reaps.

Good and friendly conduct may meet with an unworthy, with an ungrateful, return; but the absence of gratitude on the part of the receiver cannot destroy the self-approbation which recompenses the giver.

Jeremy Bentham.

Pension for Mothers.

The pensioning of mothers by the state, as advocated by a University of Chicago lecturer, The professor thinks the pension should increase in amount up to the third child, and then decrease until the advent of the sixth, when it should cease. This seems to be a sort of compromise between anti-race suicide and socialism.

For Warning to Mariners.

A Swedish inventor plans a method by which lighthouses may call out their names in stenographic tones instead of using the inarticulate howl of fog horns.

From Outside.

A correspondent suggests to the Philosopher of Polly that "some men are born crazy, some achieve insanity, and others fall in love with chorus girls."

"Father to the Thought."

The editor of the London Daily Mirror is reported to have devoted two pages of an issue to proving that woman's "ideal man" has a "plain face and light blue eyes." Whereat the editor of the Toledo (O.) Sunday Journal, declares: "It is said the editor of the Daily Mirror has a plain face and light blue eyes."
